CONNECTICUT MEN ARE JOINING THE ARMY

Four Hundred Applied For Enlistment During the Past Week.

That Connecticut men are still flocking to the recruiting stations in New London, New Haven, Hartford, Bridgeport, Waterbury is indicated by the fact that approximately 400 men applied for enlistment in the various branches of the army during the last week. In New Haven city alone a total of 128 recruits were accepted.

The regulars, states Major W. Mercer, the commanding officer of this district.

In connection with recruiting Captain James A. Ramsey of the recruiting staff says that many of the recruits are actually men who are in the Connecticut infantry. These recruits are sent to Camp Yale.

Every branch of the army wants men. Army officers believe that the increase in enlistments in this and other states is due to the splendid opportunities now open to men who join the army and also because men in the draft are joining in order to make their own choice of service.

"There is not the slightest truth in the report that the army is being recruited by the use of force," said Captain James A. Ramsey. "In some instances the cavalry has been dismounted temporarily in order to help in the recruitment of men who are not allowed to stay in the branch they choose, who volunteer, who have the preference of branches. He is entitled to our advice as to whether or not he should go, but he is given the advice when it is asked. When a volunteer selects a branch he is allowed to stay there. He cannot come to another branch and then transfer him. A recruit may make application from one branch to another. But we cannot allow it. CATHOLICS TO BACK UP K. OF C. WAR WORK

Special Collection for This Object is Announced for Next Sunday.

Preaching at the high mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday from the day's gospel as read in all the masses, Father Galvin, pastor of the parish, announced the raising of the dead of the ruler's daughter and the healing of the man having a withered arm.

These miracles, Galvin considered these as among the many instances of the power of the church and ministry during His earthly life and ministry. Not only was Our Lord Jesus toward and compassionate with those who sought His help, then, but He forewarned the millions who would need that same help during the ages to come, and provide that aid and compassion and heartening by leaving men His Body in the Holy Eucharist, daily food for the souls.

On countless altars Our Divine Lord remains under the sacramental veils to show His love and compassion to those weary from life's burdens, to the grief-stricken, to the repentant sinner, to the man who needs the help of the church, and the Consecrated Host is really the Body of Christ, according to His own promise, the preacher said frequently, even daily communion should be the practice of all, bringing men nearer to this compassionate Father who only requires love in return for all His gifts and benefits to man.

Father Galvin stated that with the permission of Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of the diocese, there is to be a special collection for the fund in aid of the war work begun so patriotically by the Knights of Columbus.

When this collection is made, it is decided upon, the national body of the Knights themselves contributed at once about $60,000. It has been decided that the sum of $1,000 will be needed to carry on the projected fund, which includes not only providing recreation centers in the various federal camps, but meeting the spiritual needs of the men in service by supplying them with books.
